General description

AIM

The aim of the Junceda Awards is to reward and promote illustration in all its fields of application.

What works may be submitted?

Works that have been printed, published, broadcast, screened, viewed online or published for the first time in the period from January to December 2020 anywhere in the world.

In the case of series, campaigns, collections and so on that extend beyond a year, the year in which they are submitted may be chosen, bearing in mind that the same work can only be submitted to the Junceda Awards once.

In the case of republished works, they may be enrolled as long as they are being submitted for the first time. Once enrolment has been completed, the work cannot be re-submitted in future editions.

There is no limit to the number of works that can be submitted by each illustrator. A separate enrolment must be completed for each work submitted.

Who can submit works?

Each illustrator can present his or her own work.

Publishers, graphics studios, advertising agencies and so on may submit their entries by filling in the enrolment form and attaching the consent from the author with their contact details (name, telephone and email).

The artist must be an illustrator living in Catalonia, except in the Global Junceda category.

Judging committee

The judging committee will be made up of winning illustrators from previous years and prominent individuals from the visual communications sphere. A representative from APIC will join the judges as a non-voting member. The committee's verdict will be final. The committee may, at its discretion, enrol and award a work that has not been submitted if it fulfils the award conditions, declare a category vacant as long as less than three works have been submitted, and change the category of a work. The committee may also resolve any situation not foreseen in the rules. The committee will be sovereign in its decisions. In the event that a committee member is finally unable to participate for justified reasons, the organisers will seek an alternative member. If this is not possible, the other committee members will undertake the required voting and review of the works.

Verdict and prize

The winners of all categories will be announced at the prize-giving ceremony, of which all participants will be notified. One week before the award ceremony, the finalists in each category will be announced on the Junceda Awards website (www.premisjunceda.cat).

The prize is a trophy created especially for the occasion by Miloš Stojanovich and Arnal Balles-ter.

From among all the winners, the committee will select the Gran Junceda prize. This prize will be worth 1,000 euros.

Professional Futures category

The winner will be commissioned to create APIC's end-of-year graphic image (this activity will be remunerated with 300 euros).

The Junceda Awards winners and finalists will be publicised through various channels:

- Publication on the Junceda Awards website
- A mailout and promotion on social networks

Rights and liabilities

APIC declines all responsibility for the authenticity of the data provided by participants on their entry forms. APIC reserves the right to use and reproduce the works exclusively for the purpose of promoting the prize, prize winners and finalists, as well as the possibility of exhibiting their works. Participation in the competition presupposes full acceptance of these rules.
